

Creative Colors International Hosts 15th Annual Awards Convention Honors Franchisees with Annual Awards

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MOKENA, IL – October 2006.--Creative Colors International today announced the recipients of the “Franchisee of the Year,” “Technician of the Year,” and “Rookie of the Year” awards at its annual convention in held in Alsip, Ill.

“This has been an incredible year,” said Mark Bollman, president of Creative Colors International. “We have an extremely stringent process for choosing our award recipients, and I am very pleased to announce our winners.”

Andy McCoy and Jack Gee of Phoenix, Arizona, won “Franchisee of the Year.” This award is based on communication with the corporate office regarding ideas that will better the system, sharing ideas and success stories with fellow franchise owners, and the demonstration of successful growth of the CCI System.

Lori Frost, technician of Phoenix, Arizona, won “Technician of the Year,” which is based on sales and is only awarded to technicians with more than one year of experience.

Chris Koselke and Vanessa Mendez, owners of CCI Tucson, Arizona, won “Rookie of the Year,” which is based on sales and is only awarded to franchisees with less than one year of service in the systems.

Creative Colors International is recognized across the country as the leader in the repair and restoration of leather, vinyl, fabric and plastics. In addition to servicing the automotive sector, Creative Colors International is capable of providing on-site service to those in the marine, aviation, RV and commercial industries. Because they warranty their craftsmanship, Creative Colors International has established a solid reputation in many industries.

CCI offers its clients tremendous cost savings compared to replacement, making CCI the efficient, cost-effective choice for any type of repair.
